SILVIA HOMOLOVA

CURRICULUM VITAE

Silvia graduated from Wolverhampton University with a First-Class Honours Degree in Psychology. During her studies she gained extensive knowledge of psychological disorders and conditions along with several years of working experience in education, social care, and the military sector.

In her previous roles, she supported children, adults and veterans affected by mental health issues, emotional difficulties, substance misuse and challenging behaviours. This was achieved by delivering timely interventions as well as workshops to teach anger management techniques, impulse control and emotional, social and functional living skills.

Silvia has developed a comprehensive knowledge in transitional services working with both adult and children. Prime examples being child transitions from alternative institutions into mainstream schools (step by step integration) and adult service transitions for armed forces personnel to transition from military to civilian life. To ensure the best possible outcome, Silvia also assisted her clients and their families in accessing community resources, including but not limited to housing, financial support, legal aid, medical and social care and educational services.

In her current role, Silvia provides clinical support to clients with acquired and traumatic brain injuries. Adopting a client centred approach, she supports her clients to live as independently as possible by implementing rehabilitation strategies to help them develop skills and abilities that allow them to participate in their local communities.

The next step in Silvia's professional journey is to broaden her knowledge in the field of cognitive neuroscience.
